REPARATION AND APOLOGY DEMANDED

POWERS TO GIVE THE CHINESE DRAGON'S TAIL A TWISTING

An Endless War By European and Asiatic Powers—

nese Ports Is the Plan of Powers.

Three identic demands growing out of the Nanking outrages, described by the state department as "studiously moderate," but presented with all the force of joint action by the five great naval powers, were served Monday at Washington on the political and military heads of the Chinese Nationalist regime. They called for:

Punishment of Nationalist officers held directly responsible for attacks by their troops.

Written apology and guarantees by the Nationalist commander-in-chief.

Full reparation for personal injuries and material losses sustained by foreigners at Nanking.

With these specific terms went the stern warning: "Unless the Nationalist authorities demonstrate to the satisfaction of the interested governments their intention to comply promptly with these terms, the said governments will find themselves compelled to take such measures as they deem appropriate."

What form these measures might take was not disclosed. The communication presented by the consular representatives of the five governments at Hankow and Shanghai, however, is not an ultimatum in the sense that it fixed no stated time for compliance under penalty; nor does it commit the government of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy in advance to any course of action for enforcement, jointly or separately.

Indications are that the Washington government has not determined as yet what forceful steps it would consider in the event of a Nationalist refusal to accept responsibility for outrages upon Americans at Nanking. Whether the other four governments also have deferred that question, or have agreed jointly or otherwise upon a tentative program of enforcement is not clear. Under the terse language of the note submitting the demands, each government apparently has reserved the right to act as it sees fit.

A supplemental announcement issued by the state department described the Nanking attacks as being the work of "uniform and organized bodies of troops of the Nationalist army," systematically conducted and including "nameless outrages" upon foreign women. The terms of reparation demanded, it was added, covered "only the minimum of what would in the circumstances be done by way of honorable amends by any government conscious of its own dignity and its duty to other friendly peoples in the family of nations."

No delegation of Chinese sovereignty or dignity is implied in the demand, the official statement added. They are directed, rather it continued toward those influences both foreign and Chinese, "which have inflamed the Chinese people" to distrust, hate and violence toward the people of the friendly powers.

Direct identification of these influences is avoided, but the issuance of the statement coincides with new advices from China of a growing rift between the radical and moderate wings of the Nationalist regime.

The identic notes were delivered at Shanghai to General Pei, representative of Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist commander-in-chief, who is understood to be in Nanking preparing to call a conference there April 15, of the moderate leaders of the party with a view to ousting Russian advisers and radical Chinese troops now dominating the political machinery of the national government.

A consular report from Canton, original seat and main center of the Nationalist movement said a clash between the radical and moderate Nationalists was imminent there and the situation tense. A report from Rear Admiral Hough, at Hankow, said conditions were alarming and the attitude of the Chinese ugly "especially large crowds of coolies who are hungry and without work."

Consul General Jenkins in a report dated April 9, which did not reach the state department until Monday said that a clash between communists and moderates at Canton was expected at any moment.

The situation at Canton was becoming "extremely tense," the consul said. The Canton Christian college has had to close temporarily due to the strike of workmen on the college campus, "who insist on demands beyond all reason."

Consul W. R. Dorsey at Tsingtao, under date of April 10, said that up to the preceding day Americans reporting to his consulate aggregated 347 exclusive of American residents in Tsingtao. Only 35 had left the city.

All southern Presbyterian missionaries from Tsing Kiang-Pu, Hwaian and Sutsien have arrived in Tsingtao and Americans from Haichow have also come out "except the Morgan and Grafton families."

The view prevailing in British official quarters is that altho no time limit was fixed in the communication delivered to the Cantonese authorities Monday at London the protesting powers will suffer no prolonged delays.

It also was declared that the powers would not consent to any further independent investigation of the Nanking disorders such as Eugene Chen, the Cantonese foreign minister, is credited with the intention of proposing.

A POSSE OF TWO HUNDRED NAB BANDITS

Who Held Up Jewelry Store
at Lodi, Medina County, Tuesday Morning.

Three bandits were meditating their fate in jail Tuesday and another was prepared for burial, following a gun battle in Lodi, Ohio, in which 200 citizens participated and over ten miles of territory were covered.

Robert Arlington, Cleveland; James Bowman, Chicago, and James McFarlin, New York were held in the Medina county prison charged with a daring daylight raid on Max G. Smith's jewelry store. Jack Turney was the dead bandit.

Two of the bandits entered Smith's store Monday and scooped up $1500 in diamond rings.

The astounded customers ran screaming into the street and soon fleets of automobiles were speeding in pursuit.

Surrounding towns and cities were notified. When the bandit car approached Homerville, they found that a barricade had been thrown to challenge their passage.

Turning abruptly they drove over a sand road in an effort to get around the hamlet. Sand soon changed to mud and abandonment of the car was necessary.

The men separated, Turney going alone. Part of the posse pursued Turney and he was killed with the first volley.

The other bandits took refuge in a thicket and the posse settled down to a siege after Sheriff Thomas Easterday had wounded Bowman.

Over 100 shots were fired before the three surrendered. They were rushed to the Ashland jail in a speeding auto and thence to Medina county jail.

Medieval Legend

According to the story of "The Pot of Basil," Isabella was in love with Basil, but her romance was opposed by her seven cruel brothers. In order to frustrate the romance they slew Basil. Isabella then planted his head in a beautiful flower pot from which grew a plant which Isabella tended carefully. In Alexander's painting Isabella is shown standing beside the pot.

THE W. C. T. U. HOLD MEETING AT TARLTON

The annual county W. C. T. U. institute was held in the M. E. church, Tarlton, Friday, April 8. The president, Mrs. Lucy B. Price, opened the day's session with a spirited song service. "America," "Everybody Sing" March of Allegiance," being the songs and "March of Allegiance" being the songs used.

Mrs. Val Valentine of the Tarlton Union had charge of the devotions, reading part of the 5th chapter of Galatians and led in prayer.

Comments on new members and periodicals were appointed by the president, after which she spoke of goals this year to be met by co-Unionists; the apartments of Y. P. B., L. T. L., scientific instruction, Sunday school, contests, peace and publicity especially being stressed.

Next followed a mock radio program, greetings being brought by Mrs. Ella Boole national W. C. T. U., president. Mrs. Frances P. Parks, national corresponding secretary, and from the national treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Muns, there parts being taken by three ladies hid behind a screen.

Mrs. Gussman, newly elected conductor of prison reform, spoke of her work, its importance and urged the cooperation of all county W. C. T. U. members. After some announcements the session adjourned with the noon-tide song and prayer by Mrs. Mary H. Dunlap.

All were invited to the basement where the cold luncheons brought by the visitors were added to by delicious hot dishes such as escalloped potatoes baked beans, chicken and noodles, and coffee, served cafeteria style by the Tarlton Union.

At 1 o'clock there was a short executive meeting of the county officers in charge.

The afternoon session opened with another song service, Mrs. Myrtle Noggle of Circleville, leading. Mrs. Adda Prushing of Ashville, read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Aldenderfer led in prayer. Short talks were given by Mrs. May Crites for the L. T. L., work and Mrs. Bessie Long, the young people's branch.

Miss Mary Harpster, of Salem Union, director of child welfare, gave a splendid talk along her line of work which was heartily enjoyed by all.

A prohibition tea party was the next number on the program. Tiny cups were passed to 23 ladies, each having a temperance fact upon it which was heard in number.

Afterwards the leaflets on "Safety" read by Mrs. Reber; "Liberty Within the Law" by Mrs. Lillian Hinton, and "Sobriety First" by Mrs. Ada Aldenderfer, completed the prohibition tea party.

A beautiful solo, "Victory" was then sung by Mrs. Myrtle Noggle, accompanied by Miss Stella Grimes. For an encore she sang "It is in the Constitution, and it is there to stay."

Mrs. Price then concluded the interesting program by reading parts of the last chapter of Irvyn Fisher's "Prohibition at its Worst," which told many important truths about prohibition that is not advertised as hugely as the wet propaganda.

Danger in Gasoline

Gasoline generates its own spark of fire through friction, such as that caused by washing in a machine, and even though there is no other flame produced, the machine, the cleaning fluids and the garments are quite capable in themselves of causing a terrific explosion. The press records such accidents almost daily.

STATE HIGHWAY

Right-of-Way Markers Will Be Used in This County.

The State Highway Department which had quarters leased in the Colonial Carriage company plant during the past winter, manufactured 3,500 concrete copper-tipped right-of-way markers that are indestructible and will widen all the turnpikes in this section, compelling farmers to set their road fences back to the original lines. In years gone by fences have gradually encroached upon the public highways with the result that some of them look like lanes.

Last year fences on the Jackson pike west of the city, were set back so that that thoroughfare is now 100 feet wide.

MONUMENT BUILT AS WARNING TO OWNERS

The photograph shows an employee of a gasoline station at Schenectady, N. Y., before the grave of a motor "killed" through the use of poor motor oil. It is claimed that this monument did more than anything else to stimulate the buying of a better quality gasoline and oil, besides attracting an unusual amount of attention.

ELIMINATION OF RAUCOUS NOISES

Horn Is Vital Bit of Equipment, but Should Be Used Intelligently.

An appeal to motorists generally to aid in the elimination of senseless noises and to take the raucous notes out of those that seem relatively useful, has been made by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. While the automobile has brought innumerable blessings, Mr. Hayes points out, it also has brought innumerable noises that should be eliminated.

Vital Bit of Equipment.

"Every motorist is compelled to use the horn on his car. It is a vital bit of equipment," says Mr. Hayes. "However, there is an intelligent standard in this aspect of driving that every motorist can try to reach."

"A movement has been launched by the American Automobile association, with which this club is affiliated, toward the elimination of useless noises by automobile owners and the arguments advanced are soundly based on facts. Certain classes of motorists, entirely through thoughtlessness, of course, never find themselves in any sort of traffic predicament that their first thought is not for the horn button."

"When approaching a street intersection, regardless of the fact that the pedestrian has the right of way, they resort to the horn in a seeming attempt to blast the walker out of his legal rights."

Use of Horn Imperative.

"There are dozens of times when use of the horn is absolutely imperative. When passing another vehicle, one is legally compelled to give a warning. A warning is enough. Still, thousands of motorists are not satisfied with a mere warning."

"Rounding curves, usually calls for the use of the horn. Here is another case when there is a reasonable limit to the use of it. A signal is a signal only so long as it does not become acutely annoying to the person whose attention one is trying to attract. After that, too often, it becomes a distinct challenge. One of the most annoying of noises is that created by the motorist who wants to attract the attention of some one inside a building. Use the horn, but use it intelligently."

Excessive Use of Choke Makes Trouble in Motor

That the rush of cool air into the engine, which necessitates overuse of the "choke," is the cause of 50 to 75 per cent of all motor troubles, is shown by tests made by engineers. "Excess use of the 'choke' floods gasoline into the cylinders and washes away the film of protection and caused metal to rub against metal," they assert. "Excessive crankcase dilution, corrosion and rapid cylinder wear result."

"The cure for this trouble is automatic control of the car that comes through the radiator, which can be obtained with the automatic winter-front. There are only four months in the year when the engine should not be equipped with this device if proper care is taken of the engine. It can be detached for this period."

Carbon Monoxide Menace

According to Prof. Alexander Silberman, research expert and head of the department of chemistry of the University of Pittsburgh, the advent of the automobile has brought a new menace with it, the carbon monoxide gas, a deadly poison. He says: "We are slowly being gassed in our congested thoroughfares. Research to prevent the formation of exhaust gases containing carbon monoxide are under way, but progress is slow and it is difficult to convince owners of the importance of using enough air with the gas."

Tuesday Is Safest Day for Driving

Is one day safer than another for driving?

According to figures of the Automobile Club of Southern California some days of the week are more hazardous than others, but the public safety department of the organization points out that there is no day when the utmost caution is not necessary.

After reviewing more than 5,000 accidents recently, it was found that the proportion of accidents was such that:

Tuesday evidently was the safest day for driving.

Wednesday was next safest. Friday was practically as safe as Wednesday.

Thursday was a fair driving day.

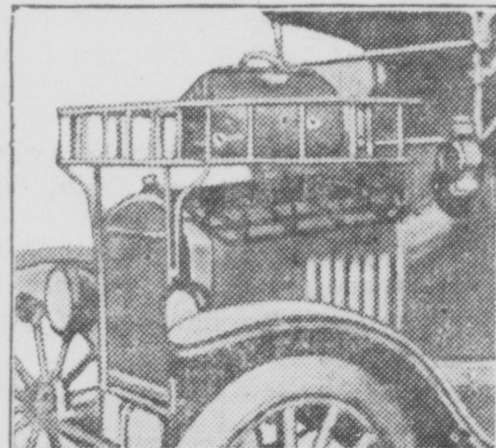

Monday ranks third in danger.

Saturday was second in the number of hazards.

Sunday was most dangerous, with a large majority of accidents over the other days of the week.

The floor is a lattice of iron strips 3-16 by 1 inch in size, placed about 4 inches apart. The rear end of the rack is supported on brackets which project from the cowl. The rack is 24 by 30 inches in size, and carries several heavy suitcases quite easily. Those on the driver's side are laid flat in the rack in order to give a clear view of the road.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

The harder a hit-and-run driver hits the harder he runs.

Automobilists should never drive a car with tires that are in bad condition.

It seems that a great many motorists have no ambition to be known as careful drivers.

The keep-a-going motto is still fataly followed by that dealer in death the non-stop motorist.

Don't forget "high" is "reverse" if you turn around to talk to the passengers in the rear seat.

Accessories That Match, Paris Fad

Harmony Chief Aim, According to Offerings at the Spring Openings.

One of the significant messages of the spring openings, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, is that accessories are to come in for a greater share of importance than has been their lot even in recent seasons. The reasons for this are twofold. In the first place an undeniably feminine note is laying emphasis upon anything reminiscent of frills and furbelows; in the second place, one of the decided mandates of the haute couture this season is that the accessory must blend with the costume. This is not to say that they must precisely match. From the numerous unique novelties that Paris is offering this season the task of selecting some which will harmonize with your frock or suit or coat should be relatively simple. Some suggestions are appended.

Decorative pins are everywhere a favored form of trimming—one sees them on the hat, for the shoulder, throat or belt of the frock; pins with no other aim in life than to be beautiful. The wise Chanel suggests a set consisting of a matching pin and buckle—a straight pin of large pearls for the shoulder and rows of pearls and metal simulating a belt buckle for the girdle, smartly carrying out the ensemble idea in jewelry. The earring hatpin is a novelty which defers to the vogue for a single earring; this is a long, dagger-shaped hatpin of rhinestones and metal, the end of the dagger hanging loosely over a turned-down brim and serving as a pendant earring. Another charming hat ornament, and one which has been given considerable attention along the Riviera, is the combination of a pair of Buddha pins worn crossed on the brim—the Buddhas being stones of different colors, often one jade green, the other a red stone.

Handbags grow in variety and attractiveness. The new felt bag, made originally from a Reboux felt tam, has been gathered into a pouch, a metal frame placed around the head-band, and the loose bag part hangs full and round, but so crushable as not to be in the least unwieldy. Fine envelopes of grain morocco in purple or black are to be seen along the Bois—envelopes of all sizes for every purpose, the smallest being perfectly flat, with the lid fitted with flat purse and mirror. Very little larger, even, is the unique overnight suitcase, which when closed presents the appearance of a large handbag on one side, but is made with an extension gusset on the other closed by straps at the top.

Many novelties these days are given an added touch of the unique by choosing as their medium very fine leathers. Compacts containing mirror, powder and comb, and sometimes other tiny feminine accessories, appear in boudoir colors in crushed morocco. A tiny square watch case for the dresser is shown in crushed morocco in tan, green, gray, rose, purple or blue, and would make an exquisite gift. Jewel boxes, made like little suitcases, with partitions, come in morocco in the various colors of morocco or tan pigskin or crushed calf in the pastel shades. Gold tooled photograph frames for the chiffonier are made in crushed calfskin in all the pastel colors, while a complete manicure set is found in grained leather.

Tailored Tweed Frock; Belt Is Only Trimming

For spring afternoon wear, Patricia Avery, popular screen star, advocates this tailored tweed frock, set off with a bright colored belt as the only trimming.

The Draped Turban

One of the interesting evening novelties is the tightly draped evening turban which harmonizes with the gown and wrap. Entire gold lame ensembles including gown, hat and wrap are being worn. Contrast is added by means of the fur used on the wrap.

TAXES SHOW STAGGERING FIGURES

The cost of all government in the United States is enormous. It is 11 1/2 billion dollars—nearly one-sixth of the entire annual income of the country.

This cost is not only enormous but is growing. In 1925, government cost more than 12 times as much as in 1890. The increased cost of government in these 35 years outstripped the growth of population by more than seven to one. In 1925, we spent for government nearly half the value of our railroads.

In the five years ending with 1925, the cost of running the federal government was decreased by one-third. But at the same time the cost of running the state and local governments more than doubled.

The greatest single item in the cost of government is the public payroll. So many people are now supported by the government that for every 10 people employed in other than government work, there is one person supported by the government.

During the past five years our state and local governments have put us deeper into debt at the rate of $3,300,000 a day. During 1925, this rate was increased to $3,800,000 a day—more than ten times as much as it was 25 years ago.

We are finding it hard now to pay only the interest on these immense debts our state and local governments are piling on us. What are we going to do when the time comes to pay off the mortgage? — Everyman's Almanac.

Claimed home life is declining, but the children are usually at home about the time the weekly allowance is due.

CORN BORER

Clean-up Changes Manner of
Seeding Oats.

Most farmers in the part of Ohio subject to the compulsory
corn borer "clean-up" regulations
will plow corn stubble or stalk
land on which they expect to seed oats. In former years a large part of this land was prepared for seeding by disc harrowing without plowing.

Farmers are now asking how
this will affect the yields, especially if the date of seeding must
be delayed because of the larger
time required for fitting the land
where plowing is required.

In answering this question,
Robt. M. Salter, agronomist of
the Ohio Experiment Station,
points out that if the date of
seeding is not unduly delayed,
there is no reason to fear any reduction in the yield on plowed
land as compared to disced land
providing the ground is well com-
pacted by rolling after plowing,
and a good seed bed then prepared by using the disc harrow.

In a 17-year field test at Woos-
ter, oats seeded on plowed land
has averaged 53.3 bushels per acre compared to a yield of 53.4
bushels per acre on adjacent land
prepared by discing alone. Where
the land is foul with weeds
plowing is ordinarily to be preferred to discing because of
the better weed control.

The date of seeding, Mr. Salter continues, is of more importance than the method of seed-bed
preparation. Given a normal
season, farmers who fail to get
their ground in shape for seeding before the last week of April
or the first week of May are apt
to harvest a few bushels less per
acre than if the seeding could
have been made earlier.

Oats seeded around the first of April, in a date-of-seeding test
at Wooster, have yielded, as a 7-
year average, 14 per cent more
than when seeded during the last week of the month. However
the season seems to play an important part in determining the effect of late seeding.

In three of these seven years,
oats seeded the last of April
yielded as well or better than the early seeded crop. In one year
with a dry June but with plenty
of rain in July, oats seeded April 30 actually yielded 34 per cent
more than oats seeded April 9.
In contrast with this, in a year
with normal rainfall during June
followed by an extremely dry
July, the early seeding exceeded
the later seeding by fully 80 per cent.

Since there is no way of predicting the kind of season, the
only safe plan is to assume that
it will be a normal one, and to
lose no time in getting the crop
into the ground.

Work in Locomotive Cab

Account was kept recently of the
effort exerted by the man at the throt-
tle and the fireman in making a run
of less than 200 miles. On that 200-
mile trip they perform 5,123 individual
acts, which are divided up as follows:
Steam throttle is operated 328 times;
the whistle, 268; brake valve, 90;
blower valve, 110; air fire door, 945;
bell ringer, 200; leech, 80; right in-
jector, 700; left injector, 30; water-
gauge tests, 30; and equalizing brake
and discharge valve, 752.

In addition to all these activities,
there is the road to watch with all its
signals, junctions, highway crossings,
passenger stations, bridges, culverts
and tunnels. Taking all this physical and mental work into consideration it
was estimated that 38 foot-tons of effort are exerted in making the round
trip in question.

MILK PRICES
RANGE HIGHER

The central district of Ohio, which
includes Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette,
Franklin, Knox, Licking, Madison,
Marion, Morrow, Pickaway, Ross and Union counties, ranks next to the east
central district of the state in the increase in the number of heifers kept
on the farm for milk purposes, said a statement issued in Columbus by the Ohio Dairy Products association.

Cows and heifers, the report says,
are greater in number now in the
state at large than they were a year
ago, and only 30,000 fewer than in 1925, which was the year of largest
ownership of dairy cattle in the history of Ohio. There are 38,000 fewer
dairy cows than there were in 1925,
but 8,000 more heifers. Never before
have there been so many heifers kept
for milk purposes as now. The increase in the number of heifers, the
association says, shows a larger potential milk supply for the people of
the state and reflects the confidence
of the producers in the present
economic method of marketing milk.

The Dairy Products association reports that milk prices to farmers are
ranging much higher than a year ago
with a certainty of their continuing so thruout April.

Monk Not Inventor of

Musical Scale Notes

What is the origin of these syllables,
Do, Re, Mi, Fa, So, La, Si, as names
for the seven notes of the musical
scale? In histories of music their invention or discovery is attributed to Guido d'Arezzo or Aretinus, a Benedictine monk who lived near Ravenna,
Italy, in the first half of the Eleventh century. As a music teacher of his fellows in the Pomposa monastery he
was credited with the production of a teaching of music which gave immediate results in singing that before him could scarcely be attained in ten years.

Guido went to Rome to teach Pope
John to sing and he met with complete success by means of his new
syllables; after but one lesson the
pope was able to find the tone of an antiphon and to sing it. Guido called his system solmisation; it consisted in
part of the use of the now well-known
syllables.

But a deeper search into the history
of these syllables or kindred ones dis-
closes that they were used by the Hindus long before. The earliest mention
of the musical scale (the seven notes)
occurs in the Vedangas, the Chandas
and the Siksha. This early notation
preceding the Christian religion
passed from the Hindus to the Persians, from these to the Arabs and
finally, in the time of the Crusades,
to Europe. There is no doubt that Guido d'Arezzo did not invent them,
but his is the honor of introducing
them into European music.

Famous Early American

Stephen Girard was born near Bordeaux, France, May 24, 1750. He took to a seafaring life, became master of a sailing vessel, then owner of
several ships in the American coast-
ing and West Indian trade. He settled in Philadelphia, increased his fleet, and amassed a fortune, the
greater part of which was left to
found and endow Girard College for Orphans in Philadelphia. He was regarded, at the time of his death, as the wealthiest man in the United States,
although compared to some modern
notions his fortune was perhaps only
a modest one—some $9,000,000.

Unclaimed Riches

Hundreds of thousands of dollars
in cash are taken annually from the mails in the United States where letters have been improperly addressed
and delivery is impossible. One post office alone took $125,000 in cash from
such letters, although in this instance $55,000 of it was returned to the sender. The other letters had no return address on them. This same post office reported 100,000 perfectly blank
envelopes with letters inside deposited in the mails in one year.

ler, 68, widow of Rev. James Bit-

from cerebral hemorrhages. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Clara
Webb, Oklahoma City, and five

Bitler, Summerville, Mass.; Mrs.
Grace Threlfall, Paris, France,
and Joy Bitler, Chicago. The body was taken to the H. A.
Pletcher Co., pending completion
of funeral arrangements.

The deceased was born and reared in Lancaster, she being Josephine Hunter, granddaughter
of Hocking H. Hunter, one of the
very early pioneers of this city.
Her first husband was Thomas
Sturgeon, who in partnership
with his brother, Taylor, conducted a tin and stove store for
many years on the site of the present Fairfield National Bank.

According to word received in

Famous Gold Field

Witwatersrand is a low ridge of hills extending about 60 miles from east to west, in the southwestern part of the Transvaal, South Africa. Here are the famous goldfields and at the eastern end of the Rand is Johannesburg. Indications of gold were found there in 1885, and in the following year the district was proclaimed a goldfield.

PICKAWAY SCHOOL NOTES.

The Pickaway township high school under the supervision of Miss Radcliffe, the music and art director, will give an operetta entitled, "Love Pirates of Hawaii," Thursday evening April 14.

This is a charming operetta and should please everyone. Lee Smith, our scenic artist is painting scenery for the occasion. The public is cordially invited to be present.

The senior class is also busy on their class play which will be given April 28 and 29.

The inter class track contest will be held Friday, April 22.

Owing to the fact that our cook has found it necessary to suspend her work, the hot lunch has been discontinued for the remainder of the year.

Work on our new addition to the school is progressing nicely.

The junior-senior banquet will be held on Wednesday, April 20, at the Boggs hotel, Circleville. It is enough to say that the juniors are a busy bunch just now.

On to Stay

"See if you can laugh that off," said the fat man's wife wiring a button onto his vest.

AMUSEMENTS

The shifting sands of the Great American desert have doubtless covered some of the greatest dramatic stories ever enacted by man, and what more natural than that Francis McDonald, the star if "The Desert's Toll" should select the location he did, for the filming of this great out-of-doors epic?

The story of "The Desert Toll" which is the next attraction at the Met theater, starting today, has to do with the evil machinations of three outlaws in a mining country, and their complicated efforts to outwit Frank Darwin, a dashing young denizen of the ragged hills.

There's a girl from the east, effectively played by Kathleen Key, whose recent work in "Ben Hur" is still a topic of conversation. And Ton Santschi, the burly villain who has never been forgotten since his sensational debut in the first editon of "The Spoilers," is seen to tremendously good advantage.

The character of Frank Darwin, played by McDonald, is most interesting. He is a young, well educated white man, who lives with friendly Indians in a cave in the picturesque mountain rocks. He is that peculiar combination of the cultured white man and the primitive dweller in the untrammelled mountain fastnesses.

His love affair with the eastern girl runs the gamut of human emotions. Believing her, thruout most of the story, a false and treacherous tool of his enemies, he undergoes a gradual birth of love in spite of himself.

The mad dash over hillsides, pursued by the bloodthirsty desperadoes, which he carries the injured girl to medical assistance constitutes one of the most thrilling episodes of motion picture history.

WAS THE WATCH YOU CARRY NEW... WHEN HANSOMS RULED THE STREETS?

A watch may never lose a second yet be many years slow

The owner of such a watch may never miss a train or an appointment but it is the one false note in his modern makeup, probably the only thing he has that stamps him as a bit old-fashioned, a trifle behind the times. And yet a new and modish Elgin can be had at a moderate sum. Slipped into your pocket, or strapped on your wrist, it will win and hold your affection as no other watch possibly can. For Elgin is conceded to be the world's standard for watch integrity.

Plan to Control Cucumber Mosaic

Remove Weeds and Other Plants on Which Disease Lives in Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cucumber mosaic, a disease prevalent in practically all cucumber-growing sections in the central and eastern states, can be largely controlled by following certain methods outlined by the United States Department of Agriculture calculated to remove weeds and other plants on which the disease lives through the winter. Recent studies by the department have demonstrated that the disease overwinters in the seed or the roots of the wild cucumber, milkweed, wild ground cherry, pokeweed, and catnip. Methods of eradicating these hosts, tested and recommended by the department, are discussed in Department Bulletin 1461-D, just issued.

Isolate Cucumber Fields.

It is recommended that the cucumber fields be located at a distance from the farm buildings and the vegetable garden. Such isolation is important because it has been found that the wild cucumber, milkweed, and ground cherry are commonly found about the farm buildings and that mosaic plants of these species are more likely to occur near garden plots as a result of earlier infection from cultivated cucurbits.

If possible the field should be surrounded by other cultivated crops, since their cultivation will reduce the number of wild hosts about the field. It has also been found that fields so situated are less likely to be infested with insects that carry and spread the disease.

Remove Obnoxious Plants.

All plants known to carry mosaic over winter should be removed from the field itself and from all land within a radius of 50 to 75 yards. In the case of the wild cucumber, milkweed, wild ground cherry, and catnip, the plants should be dug out if they are not too abundant, but it has been found that if the shoots are pulled up as fast as they appear the plants eventually will die out. Where pokeweed occurs it is best to cut down as far as possible into the large roots and cover the cut surface with salt. If the field receives the clean cultivation that cucumbers require, many of the wild hosts will be removed in the process. The first eradication should be made just before planting, and the field and vicinity should be inspected regularly thereafter at intervals of 3 to 10 days.

Since the disease is carried from the wild hosts to the cucumbers by insects, the field should be sprayed or dusted regularly in order to keep down plant lice and cucumber beetles.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Charcoal Lessens Many Troubles Among Poultry

Experience has taught us that if charcoal is kept before the poultry at all times the sorts of many digestive troubles will be lessened. If not entirely avoided. A small hopper such as is used for the oyster shell should be used for the charcoal, so that the fowls may pick at it at will. The charcoal tends to sweeten the digestive tract, thus doing away with gases and preventing foods from spoiling in the crop. Charcoal is inexpensive.

It does not pay to empty the wood ashes in the poultry yard, as only a very small part of this is charcoal, and the ash makes valuable fertilizer. However, if the ashes are emptied in the dust bath they are a great help in ridding the fowls of lice, and at the same time they will pick up what charcoal is contained therein.

Small chicks should have the charcoal granulated for them as they are unable to pick up the larger pieces.

FARM NOTES

Soils, like tools, wear out. They must be renewed.

From the farmers' viewpoint, one-half of marketing is buying.

Plant disease specialists certify that best potato yields are from certified seed.

Crops grown on the farm or locally usually form the most economical feeding ration.

Money lost on uncared-for farm implements would pay for many household conveniences and comforts.

Being economical does not mean doing without labor-saving farm implements and home equipment to save a dollar or two.

A few complaints have been made against sweet clover pasture because the milk from cattle pasturing on it is occasionally tainted. This occurs mostly in the early spring.

A spike tooth harrow with a two by four scantling wired in front of the second row of teeth and with the teeth set nearly vertical makes a good drag for leveling down gopher mounds when the driver rides the drag.

This tells the whole story
Earned income is the most valuable asset a man or woman can possess. On our incomes we depend for all that makes life worth while—food, shelter, clothing, as well as luxuries. Earning power is necessary to human comfort.

When well and earning
The two squares below will represent the average man's situation as regards income and disbursements when well and earning—the income exceeding the outgo.

When sick or hurt
Illness or injury stop or reduce income, but INCREASE expense. Therefore the situation changes to the following:

The application to be declared insolvent, recently filed before Commissioner Lyle S. Evans by John William Payne, a liquor law violator who has been confined in the county jail more than 60 days, will be up for hearing Wednesday morning, April 13th, at 9 o'clock.

Things "Everybody Knows" Which Are Not True

"EVERYBODY" knows certain things about canned foods which have been proved untrue. Science has refuted them, common sense rejects them—yet hearsay passes them along as things that "everybody knows."

Here are five of the oft-repeated fallacies. How many of them have misled you?
First, the fallacy that "the contents of a can must be emptied immediately after the can is opened."

Whatever the container may be made of—tin, glass or porcelain—the danger of food contamination depends on the care exercised in handling and storing the food after it is open, and in protecting it from flies, mice and dust. The reason for transferring the contents of a can to a covered dish is to afford this protection, as well as to avoid the discoloration of food, often caused by leaving it uncovered.

Second, the fallacy that "canned foods should be boiled at least ten minutes before serving."

This is the most absurd statement of all. For canned foods are perfectly sterilized at the cannery. Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, Harvard Medical School, says that "home processed foods have been the chief offenders on account of incomplete sterilization in the kitchen."

Third, the fallacy that "canned foods are artificially colored," and fourth, that "a chemical is a dead to commercially canned foods to preserve them."

How long will people continue to utter these insane statements when they have been proven false time and time again by scientists, chemists, doctors and food specialists who tell us first, that the natural color of food is retained in canning just as the flavor and food content is preserved, by scientific cooking and packing?

Fifth, there is the fallacy that "foods are cooked and then canned." The modern sanitary can makes it possible to pack the food raw, seal the can, and then cook and sterilize the food. This prevents oxidation, thus preserving the valuable vitamins. The food being thus sterilized by heat is rendered safe from spoilage.

A Dollar Dinner For Four

Cream of Tomato Soup
Kidney Beans, Spanish Style
Peach Pudding
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Coffee

No. 3 size can of tomatoes costing 16 cents, will suffice for the soup and as ingredient of main dish.

Save 1 cup of tomatoes for that, and cook remainder ten minutes with 1 teaspoon sugar. Add 1/4 teaspoon soda, let boil a moment, then press through sieve. Make white sauce of 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 1/2 cups milk. Stir tomato pulp gradually into this and take immediately from stove.

Kidney Beans, Spanish Style requires No. 2 size can kidney beans costing 17 cents; 1/4 lb. bacon, about 14 cents; 1 chopped onion and 1 cup tomatoes (saved as above noted). Arrange beans in layers in baking-dish, scattering chopped onion, chopped bacon and tomatoes over each layer. Bake slowly.

Peach Pudding requires 1 large can of peaches, costing 19 cents at special sales. Mix 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking-powder and large pinch of salt, sifting several times. Cut into this with knife 1 dessert-spoonful butter and add 1/4 cup milk. Spread mixture on bottom of baking-dish, add drained peaches and bake under cover. Use peach syrup as sauce.

A loaf of whole wheat bread costs 10 cents.
Enough coffee for four people, at average cost of 40 cents a pound, is about 4 cents. 1 pint milk for soup and pudding costs 10 cents. Total cost of main ingredients is 90 cents, leaving 10 cents to cover cost of butter and sugar for the meal, and minor ingredients.

CIRCLEVILLE EAGLES

Defeated Ashville Sunday Afternoon By Score of 8 to 2.

The F. O. Eagles, Circleville's entry in the Central Ohio Base Ball League, pried the lid off the 1927 season at Mason's Park yesterday in a game in which the Ashville team was the contender, resulting in a victory for the home team by the score of 8 to 2.

The result was never in doubt, being in the nature of a try out for Manager Hott's boys. No less than 16 players appeared in the Circleville lineup. Three hurlers went 3 innings each, Lefty Murphy, Kanavel and Smith all showed well.
Next Sunday the League season opens with Washington C. H.

LOANS UP TO $500

Here is a safe rule to follow—never make it a policy to loan or borrow from personal friends. There is danger of unpleasant complications.
Borrowing and loaning on a strictly business basis, however, is an entirely different matter; but at the same time there is no reason why a sincere spirit of friendliness should not prevail. It was for this combined purpose that the popular City Loan service was organized, and it assumes the role of a friend in need and with each and every loan extends its helping hand to the borrower. Doubtless you have a number of personal friends who would gladly loan you the cash that you need to pay bills now falling due, but you hesitate to approach them because that would be embarrassing. But you need feel no embarrassment in coming to the City Loan. Keep your personal friends friendly by borrowing from us.

Always a Substitute

Recalling the days of our own happy and innocent childhood, we have often pitied the small boys of the present day, in that the little girls sitting in front of them in school have no pigtails for them to pull occasionally, but perhaps our sympathies are wasted and we suppose even in the most extreme cases of boyish bobs ears could be utilized.—Ohio State Journal.

DIKES AS BAR TO MOSQUITO PESTS

Engineer Says Marshes Can Be Turned Into Farms.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The peaceful, benevolent, milk-giving Jersey cow will replace the vicious, malicious, blood-sucking New Jersey mosquito in the now largely useless "mosquito country," according to William T. Donnelly, New York engineer, who addressed the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination association at its annual meeting here. Engineering, declared Mr. Donnelly, can turn the trick, and make rich agricultural land out of all the marshy territory that now breeds only biting pests.

He proposes to turn the edge of New Jersey into a sort of American Holland. The marshy strip is wet and pestiferous now mainly because of the periodic invasion of the highest sea tides and if these could be stopped by a great dike sweeping along the whole coast, with suitable cross dikes running back from it to subdivide the land, the impounded country could be cleared of its water at relatively small expense. The mosquito pools would then disappear and the now semi-undated land, which is naturally very rich, would become a great garden and dairy region to supply the great industrial cities that lie in a ring around New Jersey.

The main dike which he proposes could be constructed in such a way as to serve a triple end, Mr. Donnelly declared. It could be thrown up by means of a giant dredge, which would work along in a channel of its own making on the landward side of the embankment. The top of the dike could serve as a highway for motor transport, and the channel could be given permanent form as a canal for slower and cheaper water-borne traffic. The cost of the undertaking need not be prohibitive, he claimed, pointing to the examples of Egypt, China and Holland, which have succeeded in similar works with much more primitive means than are at the command of present-day engineering.

Posing as Idiot, Russian Commits 1,000 Robberies

Nyitra, Czechoslovakia.—One thousand successful burglaries in less than six years, or an average of more than three each week, is the record of Ivan Barilov, a Russian emigre, who has just begun a year's jail sentence here.

Barilov's method was unique. He pretended to be an idiot who had lost his mind, due to hardships inflicted on him by the Bolsheviks before he was able to flee from Russia. He would never discuss any other question except communism, the tcheka, and "the Russian murderers."

For this reason he was looked upon as a harmless imbecile by every one who lived in the various villages in which he plied his trade. No one ever once thought of associating him with burglaries, although they occurred in rapid succession, sometimes three or four in one day, soon after his arrival in any locality.

Accessories That Match, Paris Fad

Harmony Chief Aim, According to Offerings at the Spring Openings.

One of the significant messages of the spring openings, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, is that accessories are to come in for a greater share of importance than has been their lot even in recent seasons. The reasons for this are twofold. In the first place an undeniably feminine note is laying emphasis upon anything reminiscent of frills and furbelows; in the second place, one of the decided mandates of the haute couture this season is that the accessory must blend with the costume. This is not to say that they must precisely match. From the numerous unique novelties that Paris is offering this season the task of selecting some which will harmonize with your frock or suit or coat should be relatively simple. Some suggestions are appended.

Decorative pins are everywhere a favored form of trimming—one sees them on the hat, for the shoulder, throat or belt of the frock; pins with no other aim in life than to be beautiful. The wise Chanel suggests a set consisting of a matching pin and buckle—a straight pin of large pearls for the shoulder and rows of pearls and metal simulating a belt buckle for the girdle, smartly carrying out the ensemble idea in jewelry. The earring hatpin is a novelty which defers to the vogue for a single earring; this is a long, dagger-shaped hatpin of rhinestones and metal, the end of the dagger hanging loosely over a turned-down brim and serving as a pendant earring. Another charming hat ornament, and one which has been given considerable attention along the Riviera, is the combination of a pair of Buddha pins worn crossed on the brim—the Buddhas being stones of different colors, often one jade green, the other a red stone.

Handbags grow in variety and attractiveness. The new felt bag, made originally from a Reboux felt tam, has been gathered into a pouch, a metal frame placed around the head-band, and the loose bag part hangs full and round, but so crushable as not to be in the least unwieldy. Fine envelopes of grain morocco in purple or black are to be seen along the Bois—envelopes of all sizes for every purpose, the smallest being perfectly flat, with the lid fitted with flat purse and mirror. Very little larger, even, is the unique overnight suitcase, which when closed presents the appearance of a large handbag on one side, but is made with an extension gusset on the other closed by straps at the top.

Many novelties these days are given an added touch of the unique by choosing as their medium very fine leathers. Compacts containing mirror, powder and comb, and sometimes other tiny feminine accessories, appear in boudoir colors in crushed morocco. A tiny square watch case for the dresser is shown in crushed morocco in tan, green, gray, rose, purple or blue, and would make an exquisite gift. Jewel boxes, made like little suitcases, with partitions, come in morocco in the various colors of morocco or tan pigskin or crushed calf in the pastel shades. Gold tooled photograph frames for the chiffonier are made in crushed calfskin in all the pastel colors, while a complete manicure set is found in grained leather.

For spring afternoon wear, Patricia Avery, popular screen star, advocates this tailored tweed frock, set off with a bright colored belt as the only trimming.

The Draped Turban

One of the interesting evening novelties is the tightly draped evening turban which harmonizes with the gown and wrap. Entire gold lame ensembles including gown, hat and wrap are being worn. Contrast is added by means of the fur used on the wrap.

TAXES SHOW STAGGERING FIGURES

The cost of all government in the United States is enormous. It is 11 1/2 billion dollars—nearly one-sixth of the entire annual income of the country.

This cost is not only enormous but is growing. In 1925, government cost more than 12 times as much as in 1890. The increased cost of government in these 35 years outstripped the growth of population by more than seven to one. In 1925, we spent for government nearly half the value of our railroads.

In the five years ending with 1925, the cost of running the federal government was decreased by one-third. But at the same time the cost of running the state and local governments more than doubled.

The greatest single item in the cost of government is the public payroll. So many people are now supported by the government that for every 10 people employed in other than government work, there is one person supported by the government.

During the past five years our state and local governments have put us deeper into debt at the rate of $3,300,000 a day. During 1925, this rate was increased to $3,800,000 a day—more than ten times as much as it was 25 years ago.

We are finding it hard now to pay only the interest on these immense debts our state and local governments are piling on us. What are we going to do when the time comes to pay off the mortgage? — Everyman's Almanac.

Claimed home life is declining, but the children are usually at home about the time the weekly allowance is due.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC.

Analysis of samples of the city
water which were collected on April 2, 1927, indicated that the water is unsafe and should be boiled, before being used for drinking purposes. A representative of the state department of health inspected the Waterworks
plant in company with the health commissioners and found that some changes had been made which probably permitted pollution of the supply.

Drinking water should be boiled until further notice.

CORN BORER

Clean-up Changes Manner of
Seeding Oats.

Most farmers in the part of
Ohio subject to the compulsory
corn borer "clean-up" regulations
will plow corn stubble or stalk
land on which they expect to
seed oats. In former years a
large part of this land was prepared for seeding by disc harrow-
ing without plowing.

Farmers are now asking how
this will affect the yields, espe-
cially if the date of seeding must
be delayed because of the larger
time required for fitting the land
where plowing is required.

In answering this question,
Robt. M. Salter, agronomist of
the Ohio Experiment Station,
points out that if the date of
seeding is not unduly delayed,
there is no reason to fear any reduction in the yield on plowed
land as compared to disc land
providing the ground is well com-
pacted by rolling after plowing,
and a good seed bed then prepared by using the disc harrow.

In a 17-year field test at Woos-
ter, oats seeded on plowed land
has averaged 53.3 bushels per
acre compared to a yield of 53.4
bushels per acre on adjacent land
prepared by discing alone. Where
the land is foul with weeds
plowing is ordinarily to be
preferred to discing because of
the better weed control.

The date of seeding, Mr. Salter continues, is of more importance than the method of seed-bed
preparation. Given a normal
season, farmers who fail to get
their ground in shape for seed-
ing before the last week of April
or the first week of May are apt
to harvest a few bushels less per
acre than if the seeding could
have been made earlier.

Oats seeded around the first of April, in a date-of-seeding test
at Wooster, have yielded, as a 7-
year average, 14 per cent more
than when seeded during the last
week of the month. However
the season seems to play an important part in determining the
effect of late seeding.

In three of these seven years,
oats seeded the last of April
yielded as well or better than the
early seeded crop. In one year
with a dry June but with plenty
of rain in July, oats seeded April 30 actually yielded 34 per cent
more than oats seeded April 9.
In contrast with this, in a year
with normal rainfall during June
followed by an extremely dry
July, the early seeding exceeded
the later seeding by fully 80 per cent.

Since there is no way of predicting the kind of season, the
only safe plan is to assume that
it will be a normal one, and to
lose no time in getting the crop
into the ground.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MARRIAGE

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Phyllis Hedges, a teacher in the public schools of Columbus, daughter of Mrs. Etta M.
Hedges, of Ashville, to Mr. Ches-

Pa., was made Saturday at a luncheon at the Neil House given
by Miss Mary Ann Brown, of Columbus and Miss Ruby Bell, of Cleveland, who is the house
guest of Miss Brown.

Work in Locomotive Cab

Account was kept recently of the
effort exerted by the man at the throt-
tle and the fireman in making a run
of less than 200 miles. On that 200-
mile trip they perform 5,123 individual
acts, which are divided up as follows:
Steam throttle is operated 328 times;
the whistle, 268; brake valve, 90;
blower valve, 110; air fire door, 945;
jector, 700; left injector, 30; water-
gauge tests, 30; and equalizing brake
and discharge valve, 752.

In addition to all these activities,
there is the road to watch with all its
signals, junctions, highway crossings,
passenger stations, bridges, culverts
and tunnels. Taking all this physical
and mental work into consideration it
was estimated that 38 foot-tons of effort are exerted in making the round
trip in question.

The central district of Ohio, which
includes Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette,
Franklin, Knox, Licking, Madison,
Marion, Morrow, Pickaway, Ross and
Union counties, ranks next to the east
central district of the state in the increase in the number of heifers kept
on the farm for milk purposes, said a
statement issued in Columbus by the Ohio Dairy Products association.

Cows and heifers, the report says,
are greater in number now in the
state at large than they were a year
ago, and only 30,000 fewer than in 1925, which was the year of largest
ownership of dairy cattle in the history of Ohio. There are 38,000 fewer
dairy cows than there were in 1925,
but 8,000 more heifers. Never before
have there been so many heifers kept
for milk purposes as now. The increase in the number of heifers, the
association says, shows a larger potential milk supply for the people of
the state and reflects the confidence
of the producers in the present
economic method of marketing milk.

The Dairy Products association reports that milk prices to farmers are
ranging much higher than a year ago
with a certainty of their continuing so
throughout April.

Monk Not Inventor of Musical Scale Notes

What is the origin of these syllables,
Do, Re, Mi, Fa, So, La, Si, as names
for the seven notes of the musical
scale? In histories of music their invention or discovery is attributed to Guido d'Arezzo or Aretinus, a Benedictine monk who lived near Ravenne,
Italy, in the first half of the Eleventh
century. As a music teacher of his
fellows in the Pomposa monastery he
was credited with the production of a teaching of music which gave immediate results in singing that before
years.

Guido went to Rome to teach Pope
John to sing and he met with complete success by means of his new
syllables; after but one lesson the
pope was able to find the tone of an
antiphon and to sing it. Guido called
his system solmisation; it consisted in
part of the use of the now well-known
syllables.

But a deeper search into the history
of these syllables or kindred ones dis-
closes that they were used by the Hin-
dus long before. The earliest mention
of the musical scale (the seven notes)
occurs in the Vedangas, the Chandas
and the Siksha. This early notation
preceding the Christian religion
passed from the Hindus to the Per-
sians, from these to the Arabs and
finally, in the time of the Crusades,
to Europe. There is no doubt that
Guido d'Arezzo did not invent them,
but his is the honor of introducing
them into European music.

Famous Early American

Stephen Girard was born near Bordeaux, France, May 24, 1750. He
took to a seafaring life, became master of a sailing vessel, then owner of
several ships in the American coast-
ing and West Indian trade. He settled in Philadelphia, increased his
found and endow Girard College for Orphans in Philadelphia. He was regarded, at the time of his death, as the
wealthiest man in the United States,
although compared to some modern
notions his fortune was perhaps only
a modest one—some $9,000,000.

Unclaimed Riches

Hundreds of thousands of dollars
in cash are taken annually from the
mails in the United States where letters have been improperly addressed
and delivery is impossible. One post
office alone took $125,000 in cash from
such letters, although in this instance $55,000 of it was returned to the sender. The other letters had no return address on them. This same post office reported 100,000 perfectly blank
envelopes with letters inside deposited in the mails in one year.

ler, 68, widow of Rev. James Bit-
ler, who died about a year ago,
died yesterday at the home of
Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morarity, 85
East Woodruff Ave., Columbus,
from cerebral hemorrhages. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Clara
Webb, Oklahoma City, and five
step-children, Fred and James

Bitler, Summerville, Mass.; Mrs.
Grace Threllfall, Paris, France,
and Joy Bitler, Chicago. The
body was taken to the H. A.
Pletcher Co., pending completion
of funeral arrangements.

The deceased was born and
reared in Lancaster, she being
Josephine Hunter, granddaughter
of Hocking H. Hunter, one of the
very early pioneers of this city.
Her first husband was Thomas
Sturgeon, who in partnership
with his brother, Taylor, conducted a tin and stove store for
many years on the site of the
present Fairfield National Bank.

According to word received in Lancaster by Mrs. Rudolph Ris-

AMUSEMENTS

The shifting sands of the Great American desert have doubtless covered some of the greatest dramatic stories ever enacted by man, and what more natural than that Francis McDonald, the star of "The Desert's Toll" should select the location he did, for the filming of this great out-of-doors epic?

The story of "The Desert Toll" which is the next attraction at the Met theater, starting today, has to do with the evil machinations of three outlaws in a mining country, and their complicated efforts to outwit Frank Darwin, a dashing young denizen of the ragged hills.

There's a girl from the east, effectively played by Kathleen Key, whose recent work in "Ben Hur" is still a topic of conversation. And Ton Santschi, the burly villain who has never been forgotten since his sensational debut in the first editin of "The Spoilers," is seen to tremendously good advantage.

The character of Frank Darwin, played by McDonald, is most interesting. He is a young, well educated white man, who lives with friendly Indians in a cave in the picturesque mountain rocks. He is that peculiar combination of the cultured white man and the primitive dweller in the untrammelled mountain fastnesses.

His love affair with the eastern girls runs the gamut of human emotions. Believing her, thruout most of the story, a false and treacherous tool of his enemies, he undergoes a gradual birth of love in spite of himself.

The mad dash over hillsides, pursued by the bloodthirsty desperadoes, which he carries the injured girl to medical assistance constitutes one of the most thrilling episodes of motion picture history.

WAS THE WATCH YOU CARRY NEW... WHEN HANSOMS RULED THE STREETS?

The owner of such a watch may never miss a train or an appointment but it is the one false note in his modern makeup, probably the only thing he has that stamps him as a bit old-fashioned, a trifle behind the times. And yet a new and modish Elgin can be had at a moderate sum. Slipped into your pocket, or strapped on your wrist, it will win and hold your affection as no other watch possibly can. For Elgin is conceded to be the world's standard for watch integrity.

Plan to Control Cucumber Mosaic

Remove Weeds and Other Plants on Which Disease Lives in Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cucumber mosaic, a disease prevalent in practically all cucumber-growing sections in the central and eastern states, can be largely controlled by following certain methods outlined by the United States Department of Agriculture calculated to remove weeds and other plants on which the disease lives through the winter. Recent studies by the department have demonstrated that the disease overwinters in the seed or the roots of the wild cucumber, milkweed, wild ground cherry, pokeweed, and catnip. Methods of eradicating these hosts, tested and recommended by the department, are discussed in Department Bulletin 1461-D, just issued.

Isolate Cucumber Fields.

It is recommended that the cucumber fields be located at a distance from the farm buildings and the vegetable garden. Such isolation is important because it has been found that the wild cucumber, milkweed, and ground cherry are commonly found about the farm buildings and that mosaic plants of these species are more likely to occur near garden plots as a result of earlier infection from cultivated cucurbits.

If possible the field should be surrounded by other cultivated crops, since their cultivation will reduce the number of wild hosts about the field. It has also been found that fields so situated are less likely to be infested with insects that carry and spread the disease.

Remove Obnoxious Plants.

All plants known to carry mosaic over winter should be removed from the field itself and from all land within a radius of 50 to 75 yards. In the case of the wild cucumber, milkweed, wild ground cherry, and catnip, the plants should be dug out if they are not too abundant, but it has been found that if the shoots are pulled up as fast as they appear the plants eventually will die out. Where pokeweed occurs it is best to cut down as far as possible into the large roots and cover the cut surface with salt. If the field receives the clean cultivation that cucumbers require, many of the wild hosts will be removed in the process. The first eradication should be made just before planting, and the field and vicinity should be inspected regularly thereafter at intervals of 3 to 10 days.

Since the disease is carried from the wild hosts to the cucumbers by insects, the field should be sprayed or dusted regularly in order to keep down plant lice and cucumber beetles.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained as long as the supply lasts, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Experience has taught us that if charcoal is kept before the poultry at all times the sorts of many digestive troubles will be lessened, if not entirely avoided. A small hopper such as is used for the oyster shell should be used for the charcoal, so that the fowls may pick at it at will. The charcoal tends to sweeten the digestive tract, thus doing away with gases and preventing foods from spoiling in the crop. Charcoal is inexpensive.

It does not pay to empty the wood ashes in the poultry yard, as only a very small part of this is charcoal, and the ash makes valuable fertilizer. However, if the ashes are emptied in the dust bath they are a great help in ridding the fowls of lice, and at the same time they will pick up what charcoal is contained therein.

Small chicks should have the charcoal granulated for them as they are unable to pick up the larger pieces.

FARM NOTES

Soils, like tools, wear out. They must be renewed.

From the farmers' viewpoint, one-half of marketing is buying.

Plant disease specialists certify that best potato yields are from certified seed.

Crops grown on the farm or locally usually form the most economical feeding ration.

Money lost on uncared-for farm implements would pay for many household conveniences and comforts.

Being economical does not mean doing without labor-saving farm implements and home equipment to save a dollar or two.

A few complaints have been made against sweet clover pasture because the milk from cattle pasturing on it is occasionally tainted. This occurs mostly in the early spring.

A spike tooth harrow with a two by four scantling wired in front of the second row of teeth and with the teeth set nearly vertical makes a good drag for leveling down gopher mounds when the driver rides the drag.

Few Leave Great Wealth

Eleven people out of 100—whose estates are probated with the courts—bequeath to their heirs less than $500; ten leave from $500 to $1,000; twenty from $1,000 to $2,500. Between five and six leave estates from $25,000 to $50,000.
